How to switch – the four steps

New account

Old account

Doing it yourself

If you want to make the switch yourself, follow these steps:

- 1. Open a new NAB account
- 2. Identify your regular payments to and from the old account including direct debits

This requires a bit of planning. Review your bank statements to identify all regular payments to and from your old account (the ‘credits’ and ‘debits’) or ask your old financial institution to issue you with a list of regular payments.

Regular debits from your account could be phone bills and gym membership. Regular credits that you receive could be your salary and share dividends.

Payment cycles range from weekly and monthly to quarterly and yearly, so you need to look back at least 13 months.

There are four kinds of regular payments to be identified:

 1. Regular debits and credits as mentioned above;
 2. Periodical payments are standing instructions given to your financial institution like ‘on a monthly basis, debit my account and pay my rent’;
 3. Recurring payments are made by your providers or merchants where you have supplied your Visa Debit or MasterCard Debit card number; and
 4. ‘Pay anyone’ are payments you make using your financial institution’s internet banking service like ‘every month pay my child’s pocket money.’ Before you close your old account, you should access your internet banking account with the old financial institution and print out your ‘pay anyone’ list.

3. Re-establish your payments on your new NAB account

Now you're ready to contact each organisation that makes regular credits and debits to your account and ask them to change your account details in their records. Either contact the organisation by phone, mail or internet and follow their instructions; or Complete and post a 'change advice' letter to each organisation. Samples are shown on pages 7 and 8 and the change advice letters are available on nab.com.au/switch and can be completed online.

For other payments:

If you make periodical payments, ask us to set them up on your new NAB account.

If you have recurring payments, advise your provider or merchant of your new NAB debit card number.

If you use internet banking to make payments yourself, set up your 'pay anyone' details on your new NAB account.

And of course don't forget to tell your employer your new NAB account details to ensure your salary gets paid into it.

4. Close your old account

Once you're sure all your regular direct debits and credits have been successfully re-established on your new NAB account, you can close the old account.

Tips for a smooth changeover

Once the organisations have been advised of your change in account details, you should:

- Make sure you have enough money in your old account to cover current payments until all regular payments have been re-established on your new NAB account.
- Check your new NAB account when you expect the next regular debit or credit to appear. If the payment does not appear on your new NAB account, or continues to appear on your old account, contact the relevant organisation.
- Close your account with the old financial institution as soon as your regular payments appear in your new NAB account.

Please note that financial institutions have no control over when the organisations that make credits and debits to your account will update their records.

Remember, the organisations that make credits and debits to your old account will contact you for new instructions, should any regular payment fail.

Sample list of regular payments

Here's an example of a typical 'list of regular direct debits and credits' (regular payments) your old financial institution will give you when you ask for it.

The old financial institution will also provide details of your periodical payments, if you have any, but they may be provided on a separate list.

→ Your direct debit arrangements are listed here.

→ Each row listed may represent a Direct Debit arrangement with a debiting organisation. Look for a change in columns 'Name of User' or 'Name of Remitter' to indicate a different debiting organisation. The 'Name of User' and 'Name of Remitter' will identify the debiting organisation to contact. The column 'Lodgement reference' is your customer identifier (e.g. your city council reference id).

The column 'Date' shows the last date the direct debit was made for this arrangement, expressed as ddmmyy.

→ Multiple rows with the same 'Name of User' and 'Name of Remitter' but a different Lodgement Reference and Date may be a single debit arrangement where a different lodgement reference is used for each debit transaction.

→ Your Direct Credit arrangements are listed below. Identify your Direct Credit organisations by following the same guidelines provided for your Direct Debit arrangements above.
